

Association for Humanistic Psychology
in Britain (AHPb)

Self & Society
Journal

with the Association for Humanistic Psychology Practitioners (AHPP) and the Independent Practitioners Network (IPN) – presents

ANNUAL CONFERENCE: Engaging Our Hearts in Dangerous Times: Contributions and Perspectives from Humanistic Psychology - www.ahpb.org
Saturday 23rd November 2019 – 9.30am-5.30pm

COST: full price £70; AHP, AHPP and IPN members: £55; other usual concessions: £45

Professor Andrew Samuels:

“Embracing Risk in Psychotherapy and in Politics: We Are up against the Wall”

Lucy Scurfield:

“From Roots to Shoots: A Personal and Professional Journey with Heart”

Elena Manafi PsychD

“Riding the Wave of Someone Else’s
Breakdown: The Unbearable Relatedness of Being”

Skeena Finebaum-Rathor:

“The Key Place of the Heart in Extinction Rebellion”

John Fletcher:

“Humanistic Psychotherapy for All
– Wishful Thinking or a Realistic Ambition?”

Tim Broughton:

“Freeing the Body, Opening the Heart, and Clearing the Mind: The Five Rhythms movement practice of Gabrielle Roth”

Richard House PhD:
Conference Chair

Zohar Dina Glouberman PhD:
Conference Facilitator

Venue: We meet in the West Room, Colet House, home of The Study Society, a London-based charity that offers practical, inclusive ways to find rest, stillness and meaning through Advaita Meditation, member discussion groups, Mevlevi Turning (whirling dervishes), Poetry, Kirtan and Vedic chanting: www.studysociety.org. The address is: 151 Talgarth Rd, Hammersmith, London W14 9DA. The nearest tube station is Barons Court on the District and Piccadilly lines. See the map.

For booking links and further information, see the website: www.ahpb.org